MAYOR EVICTING OLA MONDAY

#OCCUPY NEWS

Occupy Los Angeles

As a collective, Occupy Los Angeles would like to express their rejection of the City of Los Angeles' alleged proposal that we leave City Hall by November 28th, 2011, in exchange for an apparently now rescinded offer of a 10,000 square foot building, farmland and 100 SRO beds for the homeless.

Occupy Los Angeles believes that as part of a global movement advocating direct, participatory democracy, and challenging economic and social injustices, our position is such that we cannot, in all good faith, accept further material benefit from City Hall at the taxpayer's expense without seriously compromising our beliefs, our desire for global change, and our commitment to our inherent human rights to free speech and assembly protected in this country by First Amendment Rights. The 1 percent should be paying for any services used by the Occupy Movement, not taxpayers.

We will continue to occupy this space, in solidarity with our global movement, until the forces of the few are forced to capitulate to the power of the people.

[LOS ANGELES] Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa announced that City Hall Park is to be vacated by Occupy Los Angeles on Monday morning, November 28 at 12:01 a.m. The park now known as Solidarity Park has been occupied by Los Angelesans and supporters for the past 57 days. It remains the largest standing encampment in the world.

What to expect on Monday morning?

Occupy Wall Street and Occupy Los Angeles do not endorse violence in any form. Both share a mission based upon and woven around peace.

Will the park be cleared immediately after midnight Sunday? LAPD Chief Charlie Beck said on KCAL 9 news it "wouldn't happen right at 12:01 a.m."

How have evictions occurred elsewhere?

"Oakland Police, perhaps wishing to send a national message, waited until the east coast AM news cycle Monday to raid the Occupy Oakland encampment. But before the raid began, hundreds of demonstrators had already gathered at the intersection of Broadway and 14th Street overnight in anticipation of the eviction," reported inthesetimes.com.

Occupy Wall Street at Zuccotti Park was faced with eviction at 1 in the morning. So a full force closure of OLA could occur at anytime after the 12:01 deadline.

Police could use "chemical warfare agents" against protestors. Pepper spray is categorized as such an agent. OLA News has no indication that LAPD plan to use pepper spray on peaceful Los Angeles occupiers at City Hall nor do we have evidence to the contrary.

The LA Times reported today that the LAPD does not rule out the use of "tear gas" and "rubber bullets" during the impending eviction.

If you are hit with some type of chemical agent you should do the following according to NYC.gov: "If your eyes are burning or your vision is blurred, rinse your eyes with plain water for 10-15 minutes. If you wear contacts, remove them; do not put the contacts back in your eyes. If you wear eyeglasses, wash them with soap and water; you can put your eyeglasses back on after you wash them. If you are wearing jewelry, wash it with soap and water; you can put washed jewelry back on. If jewelry cannot be washed, it should be removed."

OLA's size may prompt the LAPD to incorporate the use of surrounding police departments to help it dilute a large number of protestors surely to gather at City Hall in support of OLA. Already the world is watching Occupy LA and Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa.
